

I am writting to urge the FCC to not take any action that will reduce the effectiveness of Indiana's No-Call law. Before implementation of Indiana's law we recieved several telemarketing calls per day, often in the evening. They were disruptive to our family and a nuisance. Since putting our name on Indiana's No-Call list, we rarely recieve any telemarketing calls. Please do not do anything at the Federal level that would preempt Indiana's law and thus reduce the protection we have from recieving unwanted solicitations by phone. Sincerely, Greg Blaisdell
